Returning to Pirate Nation and COVID Precautions
Everything you need to know - and where to check for updates!

ECU is planning in a variety of ways to provide all of us with a smooth return to campus life for Fall 2021! We know many of us are excited to return to campus, visit with friends, share lunch with co-workers, and witness the energy and enthusiasm we love seeing in our graduate students! Please pay attention to these websites over the summer so you are fully aware of the requirements and expectations for returning to campus for the fall term.

A June 3rd announcement by Chancellor Rogers explained what the university is doing over the summer to prepare. Please review all of the information that ECU is making available so you fully understand the policies, processes, and expectations.

New Graduate Teaching Assistant Orientation - August 12, 2021

Check out the flyer here!

The Graduate School is hosting an online Graduate Teaching Assistant Orientation for graduate students who are new to being a TA and would like support. Whether you have already been serving as a TA or will be in an upcoming semester, please join us for a day of information & networking with other graduate students across campus. Once you register, you will be added to a Microsoft Team so you can participate in the online sessions throughout the day on August 12. Approx 9 AM - 3:00 PM) Register Today

Orientation Options for New Grad Students

All are welcome!

The Graduate School is hosting a campus orientation event on August 17th as well as four online events in July and August. Both the campus event and the online events are designed to help new graduate students acclimate to ECU and graduate education. Registration is required for all events, but they are all FREE! Students who sign up for the online events will receive a Teams meeting link prior to the day of the event. Students who register for the campus event will be emailed details in early August. All opportunities are on the New Student Orientation website!
Career Services Plans Virtual Events for Fall 2021

It’s never too early to learn about the opportunities that Career Services provides to graduate students. Even if you are not yet looking for employment following graduation, attending a career fair now can help you learn what it is that employers are looking for in their new hires. You can have the chance to speak with potential employers to learn about their onboarding processes and to ask if they have preferences regarding your education. For example, if you are in the MBA program, would a company prefer you also complete the Marketing certificate or the Project Management certificate? If you complete a certificate in Biostatistics as a part of your master’s or doctoral degree, could that assist you in obtaining employment in a specific discipline such as the pharmaceutical industry? Make sure to spend time reading about these career fairs and attend one or all!

On Campus Job Fair

Graduate School Website FAQ answers your questions!

Did you know that the Graduate School has the answers to some of the most Frequently Asked Questions on their website?

If you navigate to the main website at gradschool.ecu.edu, click on the About menu on the far right side of the page. Then, in the drop-down menu, choose FAQ. Once you go to the FAQ page, you will see headings for various topics including Adding, Dropping & Withdrawing, Funding, Employment & Tuition Remissions, Adding a Certificate or Changing your Degree Program, just to name a few! Make sure to bookmark the main Graduate School website so when you have a question you can get right to the pages that probably have the answers! If you can’t find your answer, please feel free to email the Graduate School at gradschool@ecu.edu. Your question will be forwarded to the staff member that can best answer your question and assist you.

Remember, it is a student’s responsibility to review academic and campus policies, deadlines, and procedures. Frequently consulting the Graduate School website and reaching out to our staff members can help decrease your frustration and get you the information you need.

If I withdraw from a course do I have to pay back financial aid?

Sometimes!

If a student accepts financial aid of any type - loan, grant, assistantship, scholarship, tuition remission, etc., and then does not maintain the required course enrollment for that type of funding, it is possible that the student will be required to re-pay the funding. This repayment may be required immediately. If a student starts out as full-time and then either drops courses or withdraws from courses and the result is part-time enrollment, it is likely that monies will have to be returned. Students should speak with the Office of Financial Aid prior to any drop or withdraw that will change the status from full-time (9 credits) to part-time (fewer than 9 credits).

Students should research all consequences of dropping or withdrawing from courses at any point in the term by contacting Financial Aid and their advisor. Review their contact page to find the counselor assigned to you.
